One railroad traffic manager says that the railroads in the big combinations already formed, can do away with the services of 50,000 persons now employed. Another railroad man puts the figure at 75,000 and there are many estimates at from 25,000 up.

It is a recegnized fact among the railroad men that economy of operation is the chief reason for combining groups of railroads in different parts of the country. Two sets of officers will not be retained when one set can do the work, and after two competing railroads are consolidated it as a question of the survival of the fittest on the part of the high salaried executives. In the Vanderhill system more than 100,000 has been saved annually by consolidation of duties, abolition of officers and reductions in pay. This saving in salaries is but a small part of the economies effected by merging departments, and doing away with superfluous heads of departments, agents. Acc.

Dr Montague R Leverson of Brooklyn said the report of the State Board of Health for the past five weeks shows 200 deaths from consumption, 434 from acute lung diseases and at least one from almost every disease known, except smallpox, from which there was not one death. He said that all pathologists know that smallpox is a cleansing disease, and that those who have it would have had more fattal diseases.

In response to questions by Dr. C. H. Abnott of the State Board of Health Dr. Leverson said that he gave his whole attention to the anti-vaccination movement and does not practice at present. He did not believe in the germ theory.
